park Friday between Pembroke and a picked nine of this city, Hopkinsville won by the score of 8 to 7.

the action of the Democratic party, if any action is taken. Mr. Twyman is a prominent and successful groceryman who has from time to time been connected with the city government. Until a year ago he was a member of the police department and made one of the best officers the city ever had. He resigned to engage in his present business. Mr. Twyman lives in the western addition to the Third ward, on the west side of the railroad, a portion of the ward that has never had a councilman.

SIXTY DAYS

May See the Tennessee Central Completed.

Work Would Have Been Compleed Much Earlier but for Delay on Cumberland Bridge.

Supt. W. H. Fox, of the Tennessee Central Construction Company, said on Sunday evening to an American representative that the work at all points of the road is progressing very satisfactorily. He said that, in his opinion, it will be possible to operate a train from Harrison to Hopkinsville by November 1, or very soon thereafter, and beyond all question not later than the first of the year.

The greatest trouble felt all along, and which will still probably be experienced, is with the Cumberland River. But for high water during the spring and late water this bridge would now be practically finished. As it is, it lacks much of completion, although the work is being pushed forward with all possible speed. The Tennessee Central track is now within eighteen miles of Clarksville. From Clarksville to Hopkinsville the track is being laid in some place, while in others the work of grading is being finished. There are a number of steel bridges between Nashville and Hopkinsville, but no delay or difficulty has been experienced in getting these in place.

Painful Accident.

Mr. B. W. Harned, of this city, lost the end of the index finger of his right hand Saturday. He was at his barn on his farm near the city and was leaning against the building when the wind caused the door to suddenly close, catching his finger.

Mrs. Walter F. Garnett has returned from a visit to relatives in Pembroke.

South of the Ohio river will be opened at Owensboro, the bustling little Western Kentucky city on Monday, September 21st, lasting throughout the week. Cash premiums amounting to over $20,000 will be distributed for the best exhibits of agricultural products, mining products, and live-stock, fowls, pigeons, hares and the handiwork of the women of Kentucky or of other states. There will be the finest free amusement shows that the country affords for fair purposes, including many feats of daring never before seen in this State.

In fact, the State Fair will be almost on the proportions of a great exposition and those who win premiums may well feel proud of the honor, besides the financial benefits derived.

above ground at the lower end, jumps from his wheel, and dives into a shallow tank 103 feet from the base of the chute. This is one of the most thrilling and dangerous feats ever enacted by any person.
This attraction alone is worth twice the price of admission to the Fair.

All railroads entering Owensboro have granted a rate of one round trip. The L. H. & St. L.

Institute Work Over and Teachers Open Schools.

The Teachers' Institute completed its work Friday afternoon and adjourned.
The lecture by Prof. Chas. Evans Thursday night was one of a pleasant entertainment. The program included a solo by Miss Mary Jessie Brownell, a violin solo by Miss Florence Elgin, a recitation by Miss Beattie Quarles and a duet by Mr. Duke and Miss McDaniel. The published program was completed Friday and before adjournment the committee on resolutions, Prof. C. E. Dudley chairman, made a lengthy report covering all phases of the institute work and inviting Hopkins, Todd and Trigg county teachers to meet in a joint institute next year. Most of the teachers opened their rural schools yesterday.

DR. W. W. HAMILTON.

Native of This County to Conduct Baptist Meeting.

Rev. W. W. Hamilton, the gifted young pastor- evangelist of Louisville, has been engaged to assist Dr. C. H. Nash in a protracted meeting at the Baptist church the latter part of November. Dr.
Hamilton is a native of this county.
He was born at Bellevue, now Gracey, about 35 years ago and is now one of the ablest men of his denomination in Kentucky. He has never been to Hopkinsville and so far as we know this will be his first visit to the county of his nativity in thirty years.

FRACTURED LEG.

Wilson Clark Kicked by Horse and Badly Hurt.

Wilson Clark, the little son of Harry Clark, was kicked on the leg by a horse Saturday evening and quite badly hurt. He was driving a meat wagon and the horse stopped suddenly upon the street, refusing to go further. The boy attempted to get out of the vehicle when he was kicked. The kick caused a slight fracture of the limb below the knee.

Miss Mooney's Music.

Miss Mooney, the new music teacher at Bethel Female College, sang a solo "Face to Face," at the Baptist church Sunday morning and greatly pleased the large congregation. She is a gifted musician and possesses a sweet and well cultivated voice. Dr. Harrison was fortunate in securing so strong an addition to his faculty. Miss Mooney combines with her talents a most charming personality.

Miss Linda Smith, of Louisville, is the guest of her relative, Miss Katie May Cooper on South Main.

COL. W. P. THORNE

Made One of His Characteristic Speeches Yesterday.

Col. W. P. Thorne, of Eminence, Ky., the Democratic nominee for Lieutenant Governor, opened the campaign at the Opera House yesterday with one of his characteristic speeches abounding in humor.
A good crowd heard him, and his stories and witty sayings caught the crowd, as they never fail to do.
Col. Thorne has many strong personal friends here and is the most popular man on the ticket.

He makes a strong speech, holds the attention of his crowds and leaves everybody in a good humor.
Col. Thorne will go to Eminence to-day and not take the stump again until next week, as his court is in session.

He spent last night at Pembroke, with his daughter, Mrs. Jas. R.
Wauha.

COOK AND BREATHITT.

Start the Ball to Rolling at Cadiz, Trigg County.

Cadiz, Ky., Sept. 7.—Judge Thos.
P. Cook and Judge James Breathitt opened their campaign for circuit judge here today, speaking to a large crowd in which there were enthusiastic partisans of both candidates. The joint discussion was quite a warm one.

Buggy Was Wrecked.

As a colored woman, who lives a few miles South of the city, was driving down Main street Saturday night the horse became frightened and ran off. The horse became detached from the buggy near Tenth and Main and went to the country. The woman, and a little child who was with her, were thrown out, but neither was seriously hurt. The vehicle was wrecked.

City Court.

The police served a number of capiases Saturday and twenty-one of the parties paid up, the amount collected on that day and yesterday amounting to more than $100.

On yesterday W. W. Lacy was fined $50 and costs for selling liquor on Sunday. Weber Watkins, col., on a charge of breach of the peace, was fined $10 and costs. Watkins went to the work house. He was charged with whipping his grandfather.

Hit the Street.

Edgar Watkins, a colored boy aged 13 years, was thrown from a wagon near the corner of Ninth and Liperty streets Saturday afternoon and badly injured, his head being cut and his side bruised.
After his wounds were dressed he was taken to his home. It was at first thought that his skull had been fractured, but he is now able to sit up and will recover.

Cholera.

The greatest scourge of the Southern poultry yard is cholera. In our warm sunny climate, its ravages are fearful.

We believe in prevention more than doctoring. The best preventive we know of is cleanliness. Thoroughly disinfect the premises, whitewash all the houses and coops, and allow no filth to accumulate to cause this fatal disease.

Cholera is caused by microbes—infinitesimal animals germinated by impurity, which enter the system of the fowl through the medium of the mouth and rapidly multiply, causing blood poisoning. Therefore great care should be exercised to keep the water fountains, feeding places and general runs free from these germs. Sick fowls should be immediately removed from the general flock, as the disease is highly contagious. The sick ones can be readily detected. They seem to lose all strength; their feathers become ruffled; they stand around in corners, overcome with drowsiness; have no desire for food, but an intense thirst; face wattles, and combs turn white and afterwards purple; evacuations first yellowish, afterwards greenish. They become so exhausted in a short while that they can hardly walk and the slightest touch will cause them to fall over.

REMEDIES FOR ITS CURE.

We give our readers some of the many that have been tested, but we fear that a specific remedy will never be found. A. M. Jones writes: I use alum to prevent cholera. Dissolve it and mix it with soft food, also put it into the drinking water. When I have had a bad case I mix one teaspoonful of kerosene oil and pour it down the throat of sick fowls. It generally effects a cure.

Another remedy said to be effective is as follows: Charcoal, one pound; saltpetre, one pound; calomel, ten grains; salicylic acid, one drachm; grind to a fine powder and give a teaspoonful in moist meal to a dozen fowls once a day.

Another writer claims that the following is a sure cure. Take one ounce meal, twenty-five drops of carbolic acid and one-fourth ounce extract gentian; make into twenty-five pills and give one pill every twenty-four hours.

Mrs. E. R. Carr says: Make into pills half a grain of aloe-tincture, and half a grain of opium and give one every four hours.

James K. Logan writes: I have tried numerous remedies for cholera, but have found nothing to equal quinine. It cures every time. I also find it to be a splendid preventive. It is very cheap and a small piece put in the drinking water will keep fowls in a healthy condition.

Here's another: To one gallon of water put two ounces of sulphuric acid, one pound of copperas, and dissolve thoroughly. Of this mixture put a tablespoon to every gallon of water you give your fowls. Keep your poultry houses clean; wash the roosts with coal oil; sprinkle the floors with lime, and dust with sulphur.

In our own experience we have found a remedy taken from I. K. Felch's "Poultry Culture" to be most effective.

As fowls with cholera have an intense thirst it is easily administered. Here is the formula:

Laudnum.....1 oz
Tincture capsicum.....1 oz
Tincture camphor.....1 oz
Chloroform-pure.....1 dr
Alcohol.....1 dr

Put one teaspoonful of this mixture in a pint of water and give as a drink, giving no other drink till cured.

The main thing in treating this disease is to act promptly. Do not wait till the bird has wasted away and become very weak. Act at once, give heroic remedies, for the occasion demands them.—Southern Poultry.

RELIANCE WINS

Shamrock III Got Tangled Up In the Fog.—Spectacular Finish Seen.

New York, Sept. 3.—Reliance, the American cup defender, today won the third and final race and the series for that famous trophy, the America's cup. In a dense fog which prevented vision beyond 200 yards, she finished the race at 5:30.2 amid the acclamations of the assembled fleet. Shamrock III, after running for more than an hour in the fog, missed the finish line, passed by it and then returned to it from the opposite direction as the Reliance was being towed through the fleet of boats. Ensigna flattered from her truck and spreaders in celebration of her victory. Shamrock III did not cross the finish line. As often said of the historic race, when the America won the cup there was no second.

SECRETLY MARRIED IN JUNE

Wedding Had to be Made Public When Mr. Hendricks Sold A Farm

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 3.—Miss Doris Roney and Mr. A. S. Hendricks were quietly married last June. The ceremony was performed by Judge W. S. McClanahan in the office of A. S. Walker. All necessary witnesses were obligated to keep the wedding a secret until Christmas. Mr. Hendricks sold a farm and to convey a legal title had to divulge the secret, as his wife was a necessary party to the deed and had to join in the transfer.

Mr. Hendricks is a prosperous farmer and Mrs. Hendricks is a graduate of Franklin Female College. They now live together in the Southern part of this county.

More Riots.

Disturbances of strikers are not nearly as grave an individual disorder of the system. Overwork, loss of sleep, nervous tension will be followed by utter collapse, unless a reliable remedy is immediately employed. There's nothing so efficient to cure disorders of the liver or kidneys as Electric Bitters. It's a wonderful tonic, and effective nerve and the greatest all-around medicine for rundown systems. It dispels nervousness, rheumatism and neuralgia and expels malaria germs. Only 50c, and satisfaction guaranteed by R. C. Hardwick, druggist.

The Correct Version.

The Louisville Times should quote correctly; it is not: "I saw Esau kissing Kate and I saw I saw Esau." but, "I saw Esau kissing Kate. In fact we all three saw, for I saw Esau, he saw me and Kate saw I saw Esau."—Lexington Democrat.

And the Democrat is as badly off as the Times. This sublime poem is, as can be seen by a look at the original manuscript as follows: I saw Esau kissing Kate

The fact is we all three saw, for I saw Esau, he saw me, and she saw I saw Esau.

Owensboro Inquirer. Both papers are wrong, here it is: I saw Esau kissing Kate. She saw I saw Esau. He saw she saw I saw Esau.

Tragedy Averted.

"Just in the nick of time our little boy was saved," writes Mrs. W. Watkins of Pleasant City, Ohio. "Pneumonia had played sad havoc with him and a terrible cough set in besides. Doctors treated him, but he grew worse every day. At length we tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and our darling was saved. He's now sound and well." Every body ought to know, it's the only sure cure for coughs, colds and all Lung diseases. Guaranteed by R. C. Hardwick, druggist. Price 50c and $1. Trial bottles free.

After Tennyson.

By the great poet, Osea! And I've got to wire for money. And so C. O. D.—Commoner.

Hot days followed by cool nights will breed malaria in the body that is bilious or constive. Prickly Ash Bitters is very valuable at this time for keeping the stomach, liver and bowels well regulated. At R. C. Hardwick's.

IN HOPKINSVILLE.

Every Claim Is Backed By Local Testimony.

If the reader wants stronger proof of the following statement and experience of a resident of Hopkinsville, what can it be?

James A. Twyman, brick mason, of 1230 South Virginia street, says: "Doan's of the Kidneys brought on in my case as sharp and continuing a succession of pains and aches through my back that I could not rest comfortably at night and arose in the morning lame and sore. I was tired and worn out from morning to night. The kidney secretions were irregular, high-colored and scalding and deposited a heavy sediment if allowed to stand. I had no energy left and felt generally unwell. I was feeling worse than usual when my attention was attracted by an advertisement of Doan's Kidney Pills and I got a box at Thomas & Traher's drug store and began using them. In a few days I noticed that the secretions had assumed a natural appearance and the pains and aches had been greatly relieved, and by the time I had completed the box there was a wonderful change in my condition. I am glad to state that I am practically cured, and Doan's Kidney Pills will be my friend for life."

Erie Railroad's Earnings.

Preliminary figures of the Erie railroad's operations for the year ended June 30 indicate earnings of about 4½ per cent. on the common stock.

His Life Saved by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

"B. L. Byer, a well known cooper of this town, says he believes Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy saved his life last summer. He had been sick for a month with what the doctors called dysentery, and could get nothing to do him any good until he tried this remedy. It gave him immediate relief," says B. T. Little, merchant, Hancock, Md. For sale by C. K. Wyly, druggist.

Americans in Africa.

W. B. Branson says American mining engineers are largely in the majority in South Africa, where they are popular with the Africans.

As a rule a man will feel well satisfied if he can hobble around on crutches two or three weeks after spraining his ankle, and it is usually two or three months before he has fully recovered. This is an unnecessary loss of time, for in many cases in which Chamberlain's Pain Balm has been promptly and freely applied, a complete cure has been effected in less than one week's time, and in some cases within three days. For sale by C. K. Wyly, druggist.

Plany Killed.

A dispatch received in Paris says a large force under the sultan of Morocco is surprised by insurgents, who kill or wound over 1,000 men.

INTERESTING VIEWS

Will Play a Part In Kentucky's Big Exhibit at World's Fair.

Mrs. Thomas H. Clay, of Lexington, is preparing an exhibit on domestic jeppies, pickles and preserves for the Kentucky display at the exposition.

M. F. Johnson, of Fern Creek, president of the State Horticultural Society, has called a meeting of this organization for the fourth week of September at Owensboro, during the State Fair. Among the important topics to be discussed will be the fruit display to be made by Kentucky at the World's Fair.

Mr. Johnson is chairman of the horticultural committee of the Kentucky Exhibit Association. The Universal Exposition of 1904 at St. Louis will afford the breeders of Kentucky an unusual opportunity for displaying to the best advantage the excellence of the justly famed breeds, studs and flocks of your State," writes Charles F. Mills, secretary of the department of live stock of the World's Fair, to the Kentucky Exhibit Association.

Mercer county has many historical points, closely associated with the pioneer settlement of Kentucky and A. B. Rue, of Harrodsburg, the well known photographer, is to take pictures of all of them for the Kentucky Building at the exposition.

Mrs. Laura Miller, of Orr, Anderson county, has promised to offer some suggestions for an original programme for Kentucky Day at the World's Fair. Several persons have named different dates, as being most appropriate for Kentucky Day at the fair. One suggestion has come from a transplanted Colonel in Washington City.

Views of the mining districts, oil and gas belt and lumber section of Carter and adjoining counties are to be furnished to the Kentucky Exhibit Association by Photographer J. M. Maggard, of Grayson, for the mineral and forestry exhibits at the St. Louis exposition.

Among the official photographers appointed by the Kentucky Exhibit Association for taking pictures for the Kentucky Building and display of the State's products and resources at the World's Fair next year are the following: Bourbon county—Brutus Grinnan, Paris; Marion county—J. W. Miller, Lebanon; Washington county—E. A. Cox, Springfield; Laurel county—M. F. Bengt, London; Davies county—C. G. Brabant, Owensboro; Grant county—W. W. H. Lewis, Drybridge; Barren county—Adolph Rapp, Glasgow; Cumberland county—F. G. Huel, Marrowbone; Lawrence county—D. M. Jones, Louisa; Lee county—T. H. Jones, Beattyville; Ballard county—T. O. Humphrey, Wickliffe; Taylor county—J. Martin Ross, Campbellsville. The exhibit association wants a good photographer in every county in the state to take views for it and invites correspondence on the subject.

An apple tree that has been bearing fruit for over one hundred years will be one of the pictures sent in for the Kentucky Building by Photographer T. R. Palmer, of Peraloma, Monroe county.

Daric Young, of Somerset, is to furnish the Exhibit Association four views of the Mills Springs bath in the field in Pulaski county, including the tree where Zollie Coffey fell. He is also taking pictures of the oil wells, etc., for the Kentucky display at the exposition.

ON STATE ISSUES

Pennsylvania Democrats Will Make Campaign This Year.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 2.—The Pennsylvania Democrats in convention assembled adopted a platform strictly confined to state issues, rejecting a minority report on national issues and nominated Arthur G. Delval, of Lehigh county, for senator, and candidates for minor state offices.

Telegraph Operators Wanted.

Never in the history of the country has there been anything like the present demand for Railroad and Commercial Telegraph Operators. The different Telegraph Companies and Railroads are having great difficulty at this time in securing proficient, qualified and competent operators. Supt. J. L. Kolloroth, of the National School of Telegraphy, Bowling Green, Kentucky, has on file in his office recent letters and telegrams calling for more operators than there are students in actual attendance. This school has never yet failed to locate every student immediately upon graduation. Any one desiring to take a thorough course in Telegraphy should not fail to write for catalog and full particulars. Address H. H. Cherry, Manager, Bowling Green, Kentucky.

Miss Sallie Bourland, at Hardin, has in her possession probably the oldest chair in Kentucky, says the Murray Times. It has been in her and her father's family 140 years, and is in a good state of preservation yet. She also has a churchstick that has been used 49 years.

FATHERLESS BABY

Given Birth to by Widow of James B. Marcum.

Jackson, Ky., Aug. 27.—Mrs. J. B. Marcum gave birth to a baby boy just before daylight this morning. Both mother and babe are doing well. Though a stranger to factions and innocent of all crimes, this child born fatherless is yet the victim of the deadly monetary feud.

In The Leghorn Country.

The name of any breed of poultry may be helpful or misleading. Unfortunately, in a great many cases, the titles given to our fowls are the latter rather than the former. For instance, the Hamburg has nothing whatever to do with the great port upon the Elbe; the Polish has very little to do with eastern Europe; the duck known as the Rouen is not in any sense peculiar to northern France; and the turkey, instead of coming from southeastern Europe, emanated from America. To a less extent this is true of the breed which is so prominent a member of the Mediterranean family, called in England and America the Leghorn. This breed is known on the continent as the Italian fowl, and there can be no question that that designation is correct.

The explanation is very simple. It appears that as far back as 1835 a number of birds similar to our Brown Leghorns, were imported into New York from Italy, and further importations took place during the fifties. These birds were bred with a certain care, and began to attain popularity by reason of their excellent egg producing qualities.

It was not, however, until about 1872, that birds of this type reached England from America. The original importers into the United States, in seeking for a name, evidently selected that of the port whence they had been received. How the captain of the ship, or whoever it might be, had secured the birds, we have no evidence, but probably they were simply fowls which had taken his fancy in the local market, or it may be even in those days there were breeders who selected their birds with care, and had attained to a considerable fixity of type. But the fact is that Leghorn has no special connection with this fowl, and in my visit to Italy in many other districts a distinctly better type of Italian fowls was met with than in the neighborhood of Leghorn itself. This is explainable from the fact that at ports there is always the chance of an introduction of fresh blood.

At the same time however, considering the influence of the Leghorn and the large measure of popularity which it has attained, I was very anxious to make inquiries in the district as to poultry breeding generally, and also to discover if possible something with regard to this and other branches of live stock. Leghorn is a thriving port, situated in a somewhat bare district; it is not a very interesting town, but the suburbs are fine, and the outlook over the Mediterranean delightful. The market in this town showed that for the fowls for sale were small, and are sold dead in sections. Most of them have yellow legs, and there is nothing done in respect to fattening. There is perhaps more variety of fowls around here than elsewhere, and I saw a good many with cuckoo plumage and with feathered legs. I was fortunate at Leghorn—thanks to the kindness of the British vice-consul at that port, Mr. M. Carmichael, and his assistant, Mr. A. Henderson—in meeting a Signor Boshart, who has taken a great deal of interest in poultry, and at one time had a considerable breeding establishment. He informed me that great numbers of eggs are shipped at Leghorn, but chiefly to France and Spain, none whatever going to England. The price of eggs in the country districts at the time of my visit, April, was about eight cents per dozen, and in Leghorn itself nine cents per dozen. Eggs are pretty cheap in lower Tuscany.

From Signor Boshart I learned that throughout Tuscany, which practically may be said to cover the Leghorn district, the Italian type of fowl is general, and that it is more regularly feathered inland than nearer the coast, owing to the fact that within the reach of a great port like Leghorn the opportunities of obtaining other stock are much greater. He told me that while all colors of Italian fowls are to be found, and very little attention is paid to color, if there is any feeling among the peasants in favor of one variety over another, it is that the Black Leghorns are regarded as the best. At the same time the majority of the fowls kept are brown and white, with those intermediate colors which would be met with where there was no care in selection. If anyone is disposed to give greater attention to his poultry, he would be likely to choose Blacks by preference. Some of these have yellow legs, but by no means the whole of them, and in a great many cases they have slate colored legs. The brown type is less common, and it is not a little remarkable that the first imports from Italy of Leghorns to America appear to have been what we now know as Browns. Had they been Blacks, it is possible that the whole future of this breed would have been greatly modified—that is, so far as the distribution of its different varieties is concerned.

Of late years there has been practically no improvement among the breeds of poultry kept on the farms of the country. The Tuscan peasant is said to be obstinate and suspicious as to the motives of those who seek to influence him with a view of altering his methods. Also he is very difficult to deal with, and regards what has been said as a rule in this part of Italy the people are utterly indifferent to anything outside their own knowledge; so long as they make a living, that is all they care for; and I am bound to say that my impression from this interesting conversation with Signor Boshart was that he felt depressed at the slow progress which had been made. This is the experience all have had to meet, and I was able to tell him that it has been found in other countries that it requires years of work and practically a new generation ere great changes can be brought about in the regular methods adopted by a rural population.

One point on which I was very desirous of obtaining information was in regard to the methods of hatching and rearing. With us the Leghorn is a non-sitter, and unless artificial methods were available, or there was a plentiful supply of sitting breeds, the race would come to an end speedily. Accepting, therefore, that the Italian type of fowls is almost universal in the Peninsula, it seemed absolutely requisite that these birds should be sitters in their own land, and we know very well that in most parts of western Europe incubators are of a practically modern invention, not available for the ordinary poultry keeper until twenty years ago. I made careful inquiries, therefore, both of Signor Boshart and of others on this point, and learned that the Leghorn or Italian fowl is only a moderate sitter, but still a certain proportion of the birds have been bred with the maternal instinct developed. His opinion is that out of twenty hens of the Italian type, only four will prove to be sitters, and the others are non-sitters. This is undoubtedly a very important point, and explains how when the Leghorn was introduced into America and England it was added to the non-sitting family.

Selection would speedily eliminate those birds which became broody. On the other hand, with a new breed so generally distributed as the Leghorn. If only twenty per cent of the hens became broody, the hatching arrangements would not be very satisfactory, because even those birds which had displayed the maternal instinct would be late becoming broody. Under these circumstances, table poultry could never be expected to rank high, and further such a breed kept almost universally would have been comparatively useless in a colder climate. The Italians have evidently not adopted progressive methods in connection with their poultry. Throughout this part of the country at present, incubators are practically unknown. In the neighborhood of Leghorn itself, a few breeders have obtained these machines, chiefly French, but they were semi-fanciers, and so far as the commercial poultry keeper is concerned in Tuscany, this system is absolutely unknown.—EDWARD BROWN, in Country Gentleman.

A Living on a Small Farm Mostly From Poultry.

I have read somewhere that anyone starting in the poultry business should make a specialty of one branch. That would not be the best way here in the country. We have to make all branches bring us in something.

We have a farm of 23 acres, about one-half woodland; we keep two good cows, and raise our own vegetables for the family, and for the hens in winter. I take care of incubators and chickens. My husband looks after the hens and does the farm work. He does the carpenter work himself, building hen houses, yards, etc. We have one horse to use for farm work, also for riding. We make a comfortable living and are independent.

We have butter to sell from our cows, enough to buy our groceries. The rest of our expenses are paid by our hens. We keep about 200 hens during the winter, start our incubators in January. The two of them will hold about 345 eggs. Later we set some hens. By the middle of May we have hatched 1,000 chicks besides what have died. We sell our first broilers the last of April. We sell all that were hatched in February and first of March, roosters and pullets both; after that we keep pullets, selling only roosters. By the first of August we will have sold all the broilers. We save a few roosters to sell later for next year's breeders.

We have also been selling eggs for hatching all the spring, mostly to people living in towns around here. We send our market eggs to Boston, and are very careful to send only good, fresh eggs, any doubtful or undersized ones we keep for our own use; by doing that way we always get money and cape fancy prices—last winter (1903) we got 40 cents per dozen for a month or more. We send them to commission men, and we think they have always been honest and square with us.

After the broilers are all sold we sort out our pullets for winter, (we don't winter any old hens) taking what we think are the best ones; that leaves us with pullets to sell. We can get 14 cents alive for all we have to spare. We never have had as many as we could have sold at that price.

Some times after we are done running our incubators for ourselves, we fill them for others and get seven cents apiece for chicks.

By October 1 our pullets begin to lay, and they lay more than we dress off the hens and send them to market. Last year we averaged sixty cents apiece for them. That will buy grain and keep us until the pullets get laying in good shape. We have never tried raising show birds, as we can't spare much time for shows. We are busy all the time, but it is healthy, wholesome work, and I like it.—Rosa B. Black, in Farm Poultry.

J. W. M. Field, who died in Owensboro a few days ago, had $60,000 insurance on his life.

The Democratic campaign hand-book was issued yesterday. It is a strong presentation of the Democratic claims.

J. D. Wood, the miners' leader, who was tendered the Populist nomination for Governor, has declined to accept it, but says he will support Beckham.

The Republicans will have their normal opening of the campaign at Munfordsville next Saturday. Helknap, Beckner and Pratt will be the principal speakers.

After ten years' courtship Louis E. Van Norman, editor of the Chautauquan, is to wed Donia Kratochowski, a Polish Princess, says the Chicago Inter Ocean.

Two men in Germany have been sentenced to eight and four months' imprisonment respectively for making insulting remarks about the Kaiser. There have been numerous other convictions for lese majeste recently and Germans are forced to be very guarded in speaking of the Kaiser.

The primary election law in Mississippi was given its first test this year and has aroused denunciation from almost every quarter. The country papers of the State are scolding and teeming with editorial demands for the repeal of the law. They say it has demoralized politics and has brought corruption such as has never known in the State since the days of the old carpet bag rule. The plan seems to have proven as unpopular as in other States where it has been tried.

Intense excitement has been produced in Bogota by a cablegram reporting the probability of the United States dealing directly with Panama on the canal matter. Senator Obaldia, who has been appointed Governor of Panama, has left for his post. He will take with him a canal plan which is said will satisfy all. The Panama people are ready to accede if necessary to force Colombia to accept the canal treaty.

The Democratic campaign was formally opened at Winchester, Saturday. A big outdoor meeting was attended by several thousand people, who partook of a barbecued dinner and were entertained with speeches by Gov. Beckham, Senators Blackburn and McGraw, and Ollie James. The speaking was interrupted by rain and Ollie James spoke in the Opera House in town. Gov. Beckham's speech, which was published in the daily paper Sunday, was practically the same review of his administration delivered during his campaign for the nomination. Most of the other candidates on the State ticket were present. Other appointments will be filled in the bluegrass counties this week, beginning at Harrodsburg yesterday.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal hearing will be destroyed forever. Earache, if it is caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous lining.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Impaired Digestion

May not be all that is meant by dyspepsia now, but it will be if neglected. The uneasiness after eating, fits of nervous headache, sourness of the stomach, and disagreeable belching may not be very bad now, but they will be if the stomach is suffered to grow weaker.

Dyspepsia is such a miserable disease that the tendency to it should be given early attention. This is completely overruled by which strengthens the whole digestive system

The September Review of Reviews is notable for the number and variety of topics of world-wide interest included in its survey. The Irish land bill, the British tariff debate, the Macedonian revolt, the crushing of liberty in Finland, the commercial progress of Germany, and the Panama Canal question are among the subjects of editorial discussion, while various other matters of current interest are illustrated in the cartoon department, and special contributed articles deal with the new Pope and the Conclave, with the renomination of President Diaz of Mexico, with the career of the late Frederick William Halls, of the Hague court, and with "The Cotton Crop of To-day." Dr. Lyman Abbott's discussion of "The Race Problem in the United States" is supplemented by an interesting exposition of "The Negro Problem in South Africa" from the pen of an English writer, Mr. Arthur Hawkes; Dean Sanders, of Yale University, outlines the programme of the new Religious Education Association, of which he is president; Mr. Clarence H. Poe describes the rural school libraries of North Carolina; and the social and religious conditions of modern London are clearly set forth in a review of Charles Booth's recently completed work.

Sir Thomas Lipton, in an article in the September COSMOPOLITAN on "My Efforts to Win the America's Cup," draws attention to the sailing of the modern racing yacht. In addition to being a menace, these racing-machines, he declares, are practically useless. When the races are ended, they are worth only as much as the metal within them will bring. Other timely articles in the same number of The Cosmopolitan are: "A Study of the Serbian Tragedy," by Elbert Hubbard, and an account of the Papal Conclave, by Frederick Z. Kooker. Bishop of Jaro. Rafford Pyke contributes a delightful essay on "Summer Types of Men and Women;" John M. Carrere, writes on architecture as a profession; "The Education of a Debutante" is by Emma H. Kaufman; "How to Win a Woman," by Lavinia Hart; and "The Art of Entertaining," by Mrs. Wilson Wood. In addition to four complete stories and "Barlisch of the Guard," by Henry Seton Merriman, the following articles appear: "A Chip of the Old Confederacy: Jubal A. Early," by Clara Morris; Joseph Folk, a character sketch by Frederic C. Howe; Lewis Nixon, Captain of Industry, by Cyrus Campbell Wells, and "Masking in the Making," by H. P. Wells. The magazine contains over eighty beautiful illustrations.

THE PRICE OF A KISS

As Fixed by an Indiana Judge At Elkhart.

Elkhart, Ind., Sept. 3.—An Elkhart court today placed a price of $100 apiece on stolen kisses. That was the fine given Harry Loomis, now a bootblack, but formerly one of the most expert snare drummers in the country, for holding Mrs. Milton Wagner on his lap and kissing her once. Both are employed at the Clerk Hospital, he as janitor, she as housekeeper. This morning when her husband was at work, Loomis came in the hospital kitchen and approached Mrs. Wagner, who is about twenty-two years of age and of attractive appearance. She resisted him, but he paid no attention to her until a visitor interrupted him.

EVELESS EDEN.

Women Barred From the Tent at West Point.

Frankfort, Sept. 3.—Adjutant Gen. Murray today received military orders from Gen. Hates, commander of the department of the lakes, which will cause a feminine rebellion in Kentucky and contiguous territory. For weeks and weeks the fair women of the state have been planning for more than military conquests among the boys in blue at the encampment at West Point. Hundreds of parties were being made up and the little city at the mouth of Salt river was the Mecca towards which all eyes were turned.

Gen. Hates' order upsets all calculations on this score. It is in the plainest and most positive terms, and is to the effect that women are not to be allowed in the camp at any time for any purpose. The camp includes the entire 28,000 acres and consequently the women who had made up their mind to a grand time while watching their heroes play the mimic game of war will have to stay at home.

CHICAGO'S FATTEST MAN.

Frederick B. Baird, a Native of Bardstown, is Dead.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—The funeral of Frederick B. Baird, who died at his home, 6812 Eale avenue, Wednesday, will be held Sunday at the family residence. The Auburn Park Masonic Lodge will have charge of the services. Mr. Baird was known as "the fattest man" on the South Side. He weighed 356 pounds.

Mr. Baird was born in Bardstown, Ky., 53 years ago and came to Chicago in 1871 as the representative of an Eastern book corporation. Shortly afterward he organized the publishing house of Baird & Dillon. In 1888 the firm failed, with liabilities of $1,500,000.

Casting about to retrieve his fortune, Mr. Baird invested $1 in a lottery. He drew $5,000. With this money he engaged in the real estate business with Edwin P. Rowland and retired in 1893 with a handsome fortune. He left a widow and a daughter, Miss Jessa Baird.

The Chicago Record-Herald First to Recognize the American Farmer.

The Chicago Record-Herald is the first great daily to recognize the American farmer. By setting aside two columns of space daily for the publication of news pertaining to agricultural industries, The Record-Herald has enabled the farmer to publish his news, only has a personal interest in the daily newspaper but that at least a part of it is published for him and his family.

The rural mail delivery system has made it possible for him to receive his paper every day just as the resident of the city receives his paper daily by the carrier from the central office. The Record-Herald gives the farmer two columns of good reading matter or personal interest to him five mornings in the week and four columns on Saturday morning.

News published in this department called "News and Views for the Farmers" is gathered from the state bureaus, the agricultural department of the national government, the agricultural colleges and from the daily happenings throughout the country that are of interest to farmers. Information concerning stock raising, the care of the dairy, the raising of poultry and the cultivation of the soil is set forth in a reliable way.

There are expert opinions from skilled agriculturists. Practical farming and the best way to become a successful farmer are shown. Farmers in Iowa may learn from farmers in Illinois, and their experience will teach farmers in other states how to take advantage of everything that will tend to make a farmer successful.

The government crop reports are published so they will reach the farmer quickly as they do the city man.

Improvements in machinery and the best methods of minimizing the wastage on the farm are pointed out.

The department is edited by a skilled agriculturist, who devotes all his time to preparing the news so it will go forth bright and readable.

With the exception of Sunday the columns will be found in The Record-Herald every day. Requests for information concerning matters of interest to the farmer will be answered promptly. Communication on all matters pertaining to agriculture are solicited and will receive attention.

LARGEST MAN

In Christian County Dies Suddenly
of Paralysis.

Mr. Thomas Hardy, a well-known farmer of the Sinking Fork country, died last Thursday evening from the effects of a stroke of paralysis. He had been a sufferer from Bright's disease for a year or more. Mr. Hardy was 76 years old and was a twin brother of the late Joshua Hardy. He was probably the largest man in Christian county, weighing when in health nearly 300 pounds.

He is survived by a widow. Funeral services were held Friday morning and the interment took place in the Hardy burying ground. Deceased was a member of the Primitive Baptist church.

It Saved His Leg.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know It.

How To Find Out.
Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours. A sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. If it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also evidence that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What To Do.
There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part to hold water. It corrects inability to urinate and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery absolutely free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

BASE BALL.

Double Header to be Played Here This Afternoon.

Hopkinsville Had Hard Luck at Clarksville, Losing Three Straights.

The Clarksville Club is here for a series of three games with Hopkinsville, one of which was played at Athletic park yesterday afternoon. The attendance yesterday afternoon was large and the crowd this afternoon will no doubt be much larger.

A double header will be played to-day. The first game will be called at 2:30 p. m. when this game is finished the team will be given a short rest before the second game is called. There will be six games here this week. After the three games with Clarksville, Paducah will arrive for a series of three, beginning Thursday afternoon. Jackson follows in a series of games, beginning Monday. Then comes Cairo for a series, commencing Friday. Cairo will also play a double header here, either on Friday or Saturday.

Hopkinsville lost three straight games to Clarksville, played at Clarksville last week. The first game Thursday was lost by the score of 7 to 1. Up to the ninth inning the local nine had failed to score, but Street, in the last inning knocked a home run, thus saving Hopkinsville from a shut-out. The teams made the same number of hits, but Clarksville made here count for runs, while Hopkinsville did not.

Friday's game turned out to be a regular slugging match and lasted ten innings. Clarksville finally won out by the score of 9 to 8. For six innings the Hopkinsville boys only made one run, but in the seventh and eighth they made six, tying Clarksville. In the ninth neither scored, but in the tenth Hoepple, of the locals, put the ball over the fence, making a home run. In the last half of the inning, however, Clarksville made two scores, thus winning the game.

Saturday's game was a hummer, neither team scoring up to the ninth inning. In the tenth inning a two bagger and a single brought in the winning run for Clarksville, thus giving her the entire series.

In Saturday's game Edwards, who pitched for Hopkinsville, played a magnificent game, striking out thirteen men. Hopkinsville got six hits and made three errors, while Clarksville got ten hits and only made one error.

At Cairo Saturday the latter team lost to Jackson, the score being 1 to 0.

The game at Paducah the same day between the Paducah and Henderson clubs resulted in a victory for Paducah. The score was: Paducah, 7; Henderson 4.

Plans are reported to be complete for the incorporation of a $1,000,000 company having for its object the operation of a train of five rolling palaces between New York and San Francisco, with so many improvements and conveniences that a Fifth Avenue Hotel patron will not know he is out of New York if he does not look out of the windows.

It is planned that the train shall have every convenience from a palm garden to a laundry. An endeavor will be made to complete the trip across the continent and return every ten days, and if successful the service will be increased.

READY FOR FRAY.

Local Option Election to be Held in Madisonville Next November.

Madisonville, Ky., Sept. 5.—The local option fight that has been talked of in Madisonville for some time is now on. The anti-saloon element yesterday filed papers with the County Clerk calling for elections to be held in the three Madisonville precincts December 7, 8 and 9.

As an offset to be the precinct elections, it is stated authoritatively that the saloon element has a petition ready for filing that will call for an election to be held in the city of Madisonville proper.

Action will be taken on petition at the regular term of County Court to be held next Monday.

The fight is going to be a bitter one, and perhaps the most exciting city campaign ever held in this city.

More Riots.

Disturbances of strikers are not nearly as grave as an individual disorder of the system. Overwork, loss of sleep, nervous tension will be followed by utter collapse, unless a reliable remedy is immediately employed. It dispels nervousness, rheumatism and neuralgia and expels malaria germs. Only 50c, and satisfaction guaranteed by R. C. Hardwick, druggist.

KENTUCKY ATHLETE.

One of Forepaugh and Sells' Best Tumblers Born in Paducah.

Possibly not a dozen persons in the vast audiences that thronged the tents of the Forepaugh-Sells Brothers' show at the two performances Friday knew that one of the chief performers, a top-liner on the program, was a Paducahan—born and bred, says the Paducah News-Democrat.

Dan O'Brien, the premier leaper in the revival of the old-time tumbling act, from a springboard, which formed a feature of the circus, first saw the light of day in this city forty years ago. Today he ranks with Charley Vertz, now with the Barnum & Bailey show, the two being regarded as the champion lofty tumblers of the world.

This was O'Brien's first visit to Paducah for several years, and only once two of his former acquaintances recognized him. As a boy he used to turn flips on the sawdust pile back of the old Langstaff mills, where several other lesser lights in the circus arena of that time and other days had their first training. He developed into a splendid athlete, with an especial knack for tumbling, and soon graduated into the ranks of the professionals.

O'Brien has the record of being one of the very few men who ever turned a triple somersault and lived to tell of it. This feat was performed in this city some fifteen years ago, when he had less reputation than he now enjoys, and was employed by a ten-cent circus. Knowing some of his friends were in the audience, he undertook to turn a fancy double off the springboard, but bounced too high and flipped over three times, alighting on his back uninjured. Almost always when a daring tumbler essays a triple he strikes on his neck and breaks his spine.

HUGE JOKE

Terminates Into a Very Serious Affair at Adams.

This bit of romance comes from the little city of Adams Station, and is given as it appeared in the Han-dies from the Springfield correspondent:

A little incident happened near Adams a short while ago which recently leaked out and proves to be a joke of more serious proportions than contemplated. The star players in this romantic occurrence are two prominent society people, one a well-known young physician of Adams, the other a young lady of Pembroke, Ky. That they are practical jokers is unquestioned, and their intention to go the limit is quite evident.

On a pleasant summer evening, a short time since, when the moonlight flooded Old Robertson with its glory, and nothing went save that tinged with the romantic or that in which the love god appeared to play at least a minor part, Dr. L.
F. Sory and Miss Lizzy Payne, armed with marriage license issued under assumed names from the state of Tennessee by the County Clerk of this county, and accompanied by Miss Annie Winters and Mr. George Fort journeyed in buggies to the home of Squire Charles H. and Sterling Fort.

It was a pleasant drive of three or four miles until they reached the beautiful old colonial country seat, but Squire Fort had gone to spend the night with his brother, Hon.
Joel Fort, only a short distance away. This the party well knew before arriving, and after Dr. Sory and Miss Payne had administered charcoal until a thoroughbred African effect was realized and practicing a little negro dialect, they took the colored cook and hired man with them to Joel Fort's.

The two colored people went in and told Squire Fort some of their colored friends were at the gate very desirous of getting married.
Not the least doubting the sincerity of his informers, he went out to where the supposed colored friends were seated in the buggy, took the license from them and in all solemnity, pronounced them man and wife by authority vested in him by the state of Tennessee, and wished them a long and happy life and that they would stand by each other until death should separate.

Shortly after the ceremony the perpetrators of the joke rushed in,
and Squire Fort, who is a Chesterfield, but unmarried, and very immortal, went "straight up," and declared himself to be the victim of one of the best jokes of the season, and one better than he had ever experienced before.

But after reflection the situation took a more serious aspect. The marriage license was issued by the county clerk of this county, the proper officer to issue them, and Squire Fort was clothed with all the power and authority necessary to execute the license, being a justice of the peace, duly elected, qualified, and sworn. The names were fictitious, but people had married before under assumed names.
There was no more mirth and meriment that night, and some of the best legal talent consulted declare the marriage legal.

Squire Fort while making no pretensions as a joker, is the hero of the hour, but as to how Dr. Sory and Miss Payne of Pembroke are enjoying the sensation, and whether they appreciated fully with how much reality the joke is fraught it has not been learned.

THE SECRETIVE GIRL.

Signs Not Always a Safe Index in Reading Character.

"Now, there," said the man with the auburn hair to the girl with the merry black eyes, as she sat in the theater, "there is an illustration of what I was telling you about palmistry."

"Where?" asked she, following the direction of his gaze.

"Right hand lower box. See the young woman in the front seat. This way."

"Yes."

"Do you notice how she keeps the thumb of her right hand inclosed by her fingers?"

"Observe the contrast between her method of holding her hand and that of the young woman next to her.
Her thumbs are held outward."

"Yes, I notice. How very interesting!"

"I have watched them both for some time. The one with her thumb held tight, and the other with open hand. Now, palmistry tells us that those who so hold their thumbs are of an acquisitive and secretive disposition, while those whose thumbs are habitually spread wide are generally open-handed. Now I am quite certain that the young girl, with the closed hand is something of a miser, and in all likelihood a very stingy girl."

"She doesn't look it in the face," objected the girl with the merry black eyes.

"Perhaps not," admitted the man with the auburn hair, "but I'd rather depend on the testimony of the hand than on the face, for I have great faith in palmistry."

"Well, it isn't at all pleasant to know that our hands give us away in that fashion," added she.

As they were going out, says the Detroit Free Press, they brushed against the box party in the foyer.

"There's the secretive girl," whispered the man with the auburn hair.

"Yes," added the girl with the merry black eyes, "I'm not an overdropper, but I can certainly catch a word or two to see if she says anything that bears out your theory."

They pushed close to the box party, and heard the secretive girl

NO BEGGARS IN FINLAND.

Every Man There Has to Work for His Living.

"Beggings doesn't go in my native land," said A. F. Watch, in speaking of the famine in Finland, according to the Philadelphia Record. "If a man asks for bread he is given a opportunity to earn it, never the money to buy it. It is this policy, generation after generation, that has made the Finnish people prefer death to begging as it is understood here. The farmers begin to sow in June and seed potatoes and rye, and barley and oats are their great need.
What little rye was raised last year was not properly ripened before being taken to the kilns. It was unusually dark and lacking in nutriment. In a letter from my sister, she speaks of a friend who had traveled north establishing free lodgings in ten balliwicks. In these lodgings warmth and food could be had by the women and children were taught cooking, and earned their food by sewing, spinning, knitting and weaving, and the men were provided with work. It is work, work, work, there being hardly a millionaire in Finland's 2,350,000 inhabitants. The fish famine was as great as the bread famine, as the constant rains last summer flooded the country, the myriads of lakes spread over the landscape, making the usual catch impossible."

Shortest Way Across Atlantic.

There has been some talk in England lately of endeavoring to shorten the voyage across the Atlantic by developing the harbor of Galway, on the west coast of Ireland, and connecting it by swift steamers with St. John's in Newfoundland. The distance from Galway to St. John's is 1,816 miles; that from Liverpool to New York is 3,116 miles, and from Southampton 3,095 miles. It is assumed that transit between New York and St. John's, nearly all by land, could be performed so rapidly that the time from London to New York would be cut down a whole day below the present fastest records.

THE LION AND THE BIKER.

An Adventure in Which the King of Beasts Gets a Scare.

On a mellow moonlight evening a cyclist was riding along a lonely road in the northern part of Massachusetts, says the Philadelphia Ledger.
As he rode, enjoying the somber beauty of the African evening, he suddenly became conscious of a soft, stallily, heavy tread on the road behind him. It seemed like the jog trot of some heavy, cushion-footed animal following him. Throwing around, he was scared very badly to find himself looking into the glaring eyes of a large lion. The puzzled animal acted very strangely, now raising his head, now lowering it, and all the time sniffing the air in a most perplexed manner.

Here was a surprise for the lion.
He could not make out what kind of animal it was that could roll, walk and sit still at the same time, and an animal with a red eye on each side, and a brighter one in front. He hesitated to pounce upon such an undoubtedly being a being whose blood smelled so oily.

No cyclist since the Romans invented wheels ever "scooped" with more honest and single mindedness of purpose. But although he pedaled and pedaled, although he perspired and panted, his effort to get away did not seem to place any more territory between him and the lion;
for that animal, like Mark Twain's coyote, kept up his annoyingly calm jog trot, and never seemed to tire.

The poor rider, was finally so exhausted from terror and exertion that he decided to have the matter over with right away. Suddenly slowing down he jumped from his wheel, and facing abruptly about, thrust the brilliant headlight full in-
to the face of the lion.

This was too much for the beast.
It was this fright that broke the lion's nerve, for at this fresh evidence of mystery on the part of the strange rider animal, who broke himself into halves and then cast his big eye in any direction he pleased, the monarch of the forest turned tail, and with a wild rush retreated in a very hygienic manner into the jungle, evidently thanking his stars for his miraculous escape from that awful being. Thereupon the bicyclist, with new strength returned,
devoutly blessing his acetylene lamp, pedaled his way to civilization.

A CRAB'S QUEER WEAPONS.

Wears a Pair of Sea-Anemones as Means of Self-Protection.

A curious habit of a crab of the Maldiva archipelago is noted by a recent writer, M. Boreddi, whose book on this region is reviewed in the Revue Scientifique. This creature uses live sea-anemones as weapons, or perhaps as traps to secure its food.
The exact purpose is as yet obscure.
Says the writer, everything this interesting creature:

"It is a small crab of the genus Melia—a new species, having been described in 1900 by M. Boreddi under the name of Melia tessellata. This crab lives among the branches of coral, and, as Boreddi noted in 1880, it is never seen without a small sea-anemone in each claw.
Invariably, when met, it is provided with its two anemones, one in the right claw, one in the left, and it moves about in this way, with its double burrow. Why? We do not know. We do know, however, that the crab holds the anemone voluntarily; it is held in the claw, not fixed on it. And when it is taken away the crab seizes it again; otherwise it goes and finds another. It appears to be satisfied only when its two claws are thus occupied. Although oc-asionally a Melia is met with empty claws. What is the reason for this curious habit of the species? Does the crab use the anemone as a means of defense? May not the stinging cells of the anemone protect it against some enemy? Or does it use them as devices for fishing, causing them to grasp victims that come in contact with their tentacles? We do not know. It is certain, however, that the crab's claws are weak and frail; they could hardly serve as weapons as means of defense. And when attacked he defends himself by stretching out the anemones in the adversary's direction. Here is an ancient habit whose origin and exact object are not apparent. It is worth noting, we repeat, for cases of animals that use tools, especially living tools."

A Remarkable Record.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a remarkable record. It has been in use for over thirty years, during which time many millions of bottles have been sold and used. It has long been the standard and main reliance in the treatment of croup in thousands of homes, yet during all this time no case has ever been reported to the manufacturer in which it failed to effect a cure. Where a child is exposed to the child becomes hoarse or even as soon as the croupy cough appears, it will prevent the attack. It is pleasant to the taste, many children like it. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by C. K.

Oil the Flinchery.

The most complex and delicate main causes being improper or will prevent friction and complications in the human body. It helps the stomach and bowels to do their work; tones up the liver; cures con-

The "limit" of poor verse has been reached by a Hoosier who feelingly writes:
"The poor, benighted Hindoo,
He does the best he kin do.
He sticks to his caste from first to last,
And for pants he makes the skin do."

Too many people make the skin do the work that the bowels and kidneys should do. A bilious, constipated condition means a yellow skin, listless eyes, foul breath, and a general worn out feeling. All this can be remedied by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It helps
the stomach and bowels to do their
work; tones up the liver; cures constipation, dyspepsia and sick headaches. All druggists and dealers in medicine.

NOVEL FEATURE.

A Travelling Restaurant Introduced by the L. & N.

A novel feature has been introduced into southern travel. The plan is that of providing breakfast en route for passengers on the early morning trains of the Louisville & Nashville railroad from New Orleans to Gulf Coast points. The arrangement was put in service on Aug. 30.

Probably the most notable feature of the outfit consists of a movable table, or "traveler," about five feet long and somewhat narrower than the width of the coach aisles. Thus far the innovation is said to be working satisfactorily, and there is a possibility of its being extended to other branches of the Louisville & Nashville, as an experiment.

The operation of this portable restaurant is interestingly described as follows: The menu which is offered consists of coffee, sandwiches, stuffed eggs, ice cream and cake. The coffee is kept steaming hot and is served from gigantic urns which were modeled especially for the work. On one end of the "traveler" is the urn of coffee and on the other end a huge receptacle in which is kept boiled milk. Between the two vessels are the sandwiches each wrapped in waxed paper, and the other foods. Behind this is a shelf where the tableware, cups, saucers and ice cream freezers are kept.

Two white-coated, white-capped, aproned attendants are in charge of the "traveler." They begin at the forward end of the train and supply the wants of everybody on board, passing from car to car. This arrangement means a good lunch at leisure for the early morning traveler and for the all-night traveler, who has just awakened, with a cigar in comfort afterward for any who are inclined to the comfort.—American.]

TAYLOR HIT HARD.

Written Opinion Filed by Judge Owen in Important Case at Owensboro.

Owensboro, Ky., Sept. 6.—Judge Owen has filed a written opinion in the case of E. P. Taylor, trustee, against the Citizens' Savings Bank and others. This is one of the most important cases which has been in the local courts in a number of years.

The court overrules the plea of the statute of limitations as to the Citizens' Savings Bank claim and as to the claim of Dr. J. H. Hickman. It is adjudged that Taylor is liable to the bank and Hickman for what would be their pro rata part of the $50,000, which Taylor, as trustee, borrowed from Mrs. Kate C. Eagles, for the purpose of paying the debt of Moreland. The court also holds that Taylor retain the property, which he bought at the sale, foreclosing Mrs. Eagles' mortgage in trust for the payment of the debts of the bank and Hickman; that Taylor, as trustee, did not have the right to purchase the Moreland estate, except as he used the profits in paying the debts of Moreland. The claim of the bank will amount to about $37,000 and the claim of Hickman amounts to $8,000. Taylor and Hickman were, after the late Jesse Moreland, sureties on the notes of the late Sam Walden for about $70,000, and after Walden failed Taylor became trustee of the Moreland estate, finally buying the property.
